Wealth and notoriety bring a unique set of security challenges. Few people know that as well as former U.S. Secret Service Special Agent Mike White. During this session, Mike will discuss how he transitioned from Special Agent in charge of the President to head of the Hillard Heintze Private Client and Family Office Services practice and share best practice security strategies based on the same protocols that protect U.S. Presidents and other high-profile, at-risk leaders and dignitaries.

Founded in 1976, DataFaction has over 40 years of industry leadership and expertise in specialized accounting for ultra-high net worth individuals with 300+ business management and family office clients.
